for all judicial officers and employees.

Coronavirus (COVID-19) Symptoms & Testing

Judicial employees and judicial officers, regardless of vaccination status; shall notify their supervisor or manager immediately and PRIOR to entering the workplace if they are experiencing a shortness of breath, difficulty breathing, a dry cough, a temperature at or above 100.4, chills, sore throat, body aches, headaches, congestion or runny nose, nausea or vomiting, diarrhea, or have lost their sense of taste or smell, or if they have concerns that they may have been exposed to the virus.

Judicial employees and judicial officers, regardless of vaccination status; must also report if they have a household member or a visitor staying in their household who is experiencing coronavirus (COVID-19) symptoms.

Voluntary Testing:

Judicial employees and judicial officers, regardless of vaccination status; shall notify their supervisor or manager prior to entering the workplace if they voluntarily received a coronavirus (COVID-19) test and are awaiting the results (as opposed to obtaining a coronavirus test because of concerns regarding illness or exposure, no matter how remote).

- Management should ascertain if there is an underlying cause for concern, or if contact with a possible positive case occurred resulting in the voluntary test.
- If the judicial officer or employee or other person wishing to enter the courthouse or judicial building engages in routine testing, such as when required by their employer, medical provider, or otherwise, the Chief Judge or designee may allow the person to enter the courthouse or judicial facility based on the specific circumstances.
- If the employee or judicial officer is not fully vaccinated as defined in the Supreme Court protocols and in the definitions below, then an exception must be approved using the NMJB ERT Screening Exception to Enter Courthouse or Judicial Building form, with a copy of the approval sent to the ERT.
- In such cases, the person must report any new or changing symptoms immediately and follow the requirements of COVID testing and symptoms.
- Unvaccinated Judicial officers and judicial employees required to test weekly may continue working and enter the courthouse or facility while awaiting test results under this provision and provided they can pass the daily screening questions.

Because COVID-19 is so contagious and can be spread by people who do not have any apparent symptoms, people who have tested positive for COVID-19 and people who have had close contact with someone who tested positive for COVID-19 should physically separate themselves from other people.

1. SYMPTOMATIC:

If an employee or judicial officer, regardless of vaccination status; is experiencing coronavirus, (COVID-19) related symptoms they must immediately:

- Receive a coronavirus (COVID-19) test by an approved NMDOH testing site, using appropriate and approved NMDOH tests. DOH approved tests include home test kits mailed to a judicial officer or employee from an approved provider sponsored or in coordination with the DOH. Approved site locations in this context include the judicial officer or employee's residence.
- Engage in a period of self-isolation (duration outlined below and dependent upon whether the employee or judicial officer tests while symptomatic).
- Work from home during the period of self-isolation to the extent that work can be performed remotely, and with the permission of the chief judge, administrative authority, or designee.
- Cross-Tracing and Contact: Management must determine all employees or judicial officers who are not fully vaccinated that came in contact with the possible positive employee came in contact with within the preceding ten (10) days, and send those employees and judicial officers home to telework until the employee's test results are returned (contact is defined as less than six (6) feet for more than three (3) minutes), and have them immediately contact the DOH to receive a coronavirus (COVID-19) test.
- If the judicial officer or employee had contact with other court staff either within or outside of the courthouse or judicial building, management should determine whether violating the Supreme Court Order or corresponding protocols, which include ensuring appropriate social and physical distancing warrants corrective measures or communications.
- A judicial officer or employee who is teleworking should report experiencing any of these symptoms, and report any household member who is experiencing these symptoms, to their supervisor and Human Resources immediately if the worker has been at the courthouse or judicial building ten (10) days prior to first experiencing the coronavirus (COVID-19) symptoms. The onsite performance of job duties is the presumptive working arrangement for all judicial officers and employees.
- The CEO or their designee must immediately report the potential or confirmed coronavirus (COVID-19) case to the ERT using the electronic Google Form, and if a positive, case must submit to the NMED Rapid Response Team within four (4) hours of initial notification and forward the confirmation of submittal to AOC HRD. A follow-up report is required using the electronic Google form once the test results are received.
 - ❖ An employee or judicial officer, regardless of vaccination status; who begins exhibiting symptoms before they arrive at work, they may not go to work and must notify their immediate supervisor, manager, and Human Resources immediately.

- ❖ Employees experiencing a medical emergency should call 911, and notify the operator of their symptoms.

2. NEGATIVE TEST WHILE SYMPTOMATIC:

If the judicial employee or judicial officer is tested while symptomatic, and the test is negative for the coronavirus (COVID-19), the employee may:

- Return to work after they have been symptom-free for 72-hours without the use of fever-reducing medication, and
- Are able to pass the daily screening questions.
 - ❖ The contacts reported by the symptomatic employee may also return to the workplace.
 - ❖ Management should determine whether violating the Supreme Court Order or corresponding protocols, which include ensuring appropriate social and physical distancing warrants corrective measures or communications.
 - ❖ The CEO or their designee must immediately report the test results to the ERT using the electronic Google form.

Employees or judicial officers denied access to a courthouse or other building due to symptoms that are related to a CHRONIC ILLNESS OR CONDITION may follow the guidance under HEALTH SCREENING.

3. NEGATIVE TEST WHILE ASYMPTOMATIC:

If the judicial employee or judicial officer who is not fully vaccinated is tested when they are no longer experiencing symptoms, or are asymptomatic, and the test is negative for the coronavirus (COVID-19) the employee must:

- Must Self-isolate for ten (10) days following the onset of the symptoms, and may not return to the workplace until the employee or judicial officer is able to pass the daily screening questions.
 - ❖ A negative test if taken while asymptomatic does not replace the required ten (10) day self-isolation. Infection can occur at any point during the self-isolation period and the full ten (10) day self-isolation is required.
 - ❖ The contacts reported by the asymptomatic employee may not return to the workplace until ten (10) days following the contact or exposure.
 - ❖ Management should determine whether violating the Supreme Court Order or corresponding protocols, which include ensuring appropriate social and physical distancing warrants corrective measures or communications.
 - ❖ The CEO or their designee must immediately report the test results to the ERT using the electronic Google form.

Unless tested while symptomatic, a negative test result does not end the ten (10) day self-isolation. Infection can occur at any point during the self-isolation period and the full self-isolation period should be completed.

If a fully vaccinated judicial employee or judicial officer is tested when they are no longer experiencing symptoms, or are asymptomatic, and the test is negative for the coronavirus (COVID-19) the employee may:

- Return to the workplace after being symptom-free for 72-hours without the use of fever-reducing medicine, and
- Is able to pass the daily screening questions.
- Work from home during the period of self-isolation to the extent that work can be performed remotely, and with the permission of the chief judge, administrative authority, or designee.

4. POSITIVE TEST WHILE SYMPTOMATIC OR ASYMPTOMATIC: If the judicial employee or judicial officer tests positive and regardless of vaccination status:

- The chief judge, administrative authority, or designee must report a positive case to the Supreme Court's ERT within two (2) hours of learning of the positive case.
- The judicial employee or judicial officer must:
 - ❖ Self-isolate for fourteen (14) days from the date of the positive test,
 - ❖ Work from home during the period of self-isolation to the extent that work can be performed remotely, and with the permission of the chief judge, administrative authority, or designee.
 - ❖ Has been advised by the DOH that they may return to normal activities,
 - ❖ Able to pass the daily screening questions, and
 - ❖ Receive written approval by the chief judge, administrative authority or designee to reenter the workplace using the NMJB ERT Returning to Work for Those Who Have Had Covid-19.
 - ❖ Judicial employees or judicial officers may be released back to work activities by the NMDOH as no longer infectious, though may continue to test positive.
 - ❖ A judicial officer or judicial employee who tests positive, has self-isolated for fourteen (14) days, and is unable to pass the daily screening questions may be approved by the chief judge, administrative authority, or designee to return back in to the court or facility using the Returning to Work for Those Who Have Had COVID-19 form.
 - ❖ Unvaccinated judicial officers and judicial employees who test weekly, and who continue to test positive for the coronavirus (COVID-19) must receive weekly written approval by the chief judge, administrative authority or designee to reenter the workplace using the NMJB ERT Returning to Work for those who have had Covid-19.

- ❖ Please note the self-certification on the form requires confirmation that the NM DOH has advised them that they may return to work activities.
- ❖ This form is required to be completed to return to work activities if the employee is working in the court or facility.
- ❖ Management should determine whether violating the Supreme Court Order or corresponding protocols, which include ensuring appropriate social and physical distancing warrants corrective measures or communications.
- ❖ Management may not require a NMDOH clearance (return to work) letter, and should not require a negative test before allowing the employee to return to the workplace. Employees may continue to test positive while still being released by the NMDOH as no longer infectious.
- All courthouses and other judicial buildings must be maintained in accordance with the guidelines issued by the NM Department of Health for the cleaning and disinfection of public facilities during the current public health emergency, and when there is a positive coronavirus (COVID-19) case.

CORONAVIRUS (COVID-19) – EXPOSURE OR CONTACT WITH A POTENTIAL OR CONFIRMED POSITIVE CASE

Confirmed Positive Coronavirus (COVID-19) Case

If a judicial employee or judicial officer who is not fully vaccinated has contact with a confirmed positive coronavirus (COVID-19) case, the judicial employee or judicial officer must begin self-isolation of ten (10) days, and must immediately contact the NMDOH to obtain a coronavirus (COVID-19) test conducted by an approved NMDOH testing site, using appropriate and approved NMDOH tests. The ten (10) days run from the last date the judicial employee or judicial officer has contact with the person with coronavirus (COVID-19). The CEO or designee must report the contact using the electronic Google Form.

- If the judicial employee or judicial officer is fully vaccinated the judicial employee or judicial officer does not have to self-isolate or test after contact with a confirmed positive coronavirus (COVID-19) case, unless it is a household member or someone for whom the judicial employee or judicial officer provide care, and may return into the workplace unless the judicial employee or judicial officer has coronavirus (COVID-19) symptoms.

- If the judicial employee or judicial officer has symptoms of coronavirus (COVID- 19), they must self-isolate, test, and follow the Emergency Court Protocols for symptomatic judicial employees and judicial officers.
- If the judicial officer or judicial employee is fully vaccinated and has a household member or someone for whom they provide regular care with a confirmed positive COVID-19 case, the fully vaccinated judicial employee or judicial officer should self-isolate and test on day 3 to day 5 following exposure and may return to the workplace after a minimum of five (5) days with a negative test.
- If an unvaccinated judicial officer or judicial employee lives with or cares for someone with a confirmed positive COVID-19 case, the judicial officer or judicial employee must continue to stay in isolation until ten (10) days after the positive COVID household member completes their period of self-isolation, regardless of vaccination status; this is a self-isolation period of approximately twenty-four (24) days from the date the positive test was taken.
- Work from home during the period of self-isolation to the extent that work can be performed remotely, and with the permission of the chief judge, administrative authority, or designee.
- The CEO or designee must report if a judicial officer or judicial employee lives with or cares for someone with a confirmed positive coronavirus (COVID-19) case, using the electronic Google Form.

Potential Coronavirus (COVID-19) Case

The CEO or designee must report if contact occurs between a potential COVID-19 infected judicial employee or judicial officer and another person who works for the judiciary, or who works in the court, facility, or judicial property using the electronic Google Form and a follow-up report is required once the test results are received, unless the judicial employee or judicial officer is fully vaccinated, then the judicial employee or judicial officer does not have to self-isolate and may return into the workplace.

If the judicial employee or judicial officer who is unvaccinated did have contact with other court staff either within or outside of the courthouse or judicial building, management should determine whether violating the Supreme Court Order or corresponding protocols, which include ensuring appropriate social and physical distancing warrants corrective measures or communications.

1. A judicial employee or judicial officer who is not fully vaccinated has contact with someone who is a potential coronavirus (COVID-19) case must do the following, unless as provided for in the exception outlined above:

- Immediately self-isolate for ten (10) calendar days from the last date of contact and exposure from that person (e.g., if five (5) days have passed since the judicial employee or judicial officer last had contact or exposure to the possible positive case, then the self-isolation would be for five (5) days, to equal a total of ten

(10) days since last contact or exposure) unless:

- ❖ If the exposure or contact is with a symptomatic person who receives a negative coronavirus (COVID-19) test while symptomatic, the judicial employee or judicial officer may immediately return to the workplace provided they can pass all screening questions.
- The judicial employee or judicial officer must immediately contact the NMDOH to obtain a coronavirus (COVID-19) test conducted by an approved NMDOH testing site, using appropriate and approved NMDOH tests.
- Cross-Tracing and Contact: Management must identify all judicial employees or judicial officers in contact with the possible positive judicial employee within the preceding ten (10) days, and send those judicial employees and judicial officers home to telework until the employee's test results are returned (contact is defined as less than six (6) feet for more than three (3) minutes).

2. If the exposure or contact is with a household member (child, spouse, etc.) or someone who the judicial employee or judicial officer provides regular care who is the potential coronavirus (COVID-19) case:

- A judicial employee or judicial officer who is fully vaccinated and has a potential coronavirus (COVID-19) case within their household does not have to self-isolate and may continue working unless the household member or person for whom the fully vaccinated judicial employee or judicial officer provides care tests positive.
- If a judicial employee or judicial officer who is not fully vaccinated has a potential coronavirus (COVID-19) case within their household, the judicial employee should begin self-isolation of ten (10) days, and must immediately contact the NMDOH to obtain a coronavirus (COVID-19) test conducted by an approved NMDOH testing site, using appropriate and approved NMDOH tests. The judicial employee should contact the NMDOH to see if the judicial employee and household members should be tested, and continue self-isolating unless the judicial employee or judicial officer's household member's contact's test is confirmed as negative.

- If the test results of the contact (the person the household member came in contact with) are not able to be obtained, the judicial employee or judicial officer should self-isolate for the full ten (10) days.
- Work from home during the period of self-isolation to the extent that work can be performed remotely, and with the permission of the chief judge, administrative authority, or designee.
- If the judicial employee or judicial officer is fully vaccinated, then the judicial employee does not have to self-isolate and may return into the workplace.
- If the contact of the household member is determined to have been negative, the judicial employee or judicial officer may return to the workplace provided they can pass the daily screening questions.

❖ Example - DAYCARE or SCHOOL CONTACT: For example, if a judicial employee or judicial officer's child's school is closed due to a potential coronavirus (COVID-19) case, the judicial employee or judicial officer, and household members should self-isolate for ten (10) days, or until the person, the child was exposed to receive a negative coronavirus (COVID-19) test. The judicial employee or judicial officer, and household members should take a coronavirus (COVID-19) test administered by an approved NMDOH testing site, using appropriate and approved NMDOH tests. If a judicial employee or judicial officer, is two weeks past their second Moderna or Pfizer vaccination, or their first Johnson and Johnson vaccination, as confirmed and verified by human resources, they are exempted from the required self-isolation period and may return to the workplace.

❖ Example - SPOUSE CONTACT AT PLACE OF EMPLOYMENT: For example, if a judicial employee or judicial officer's spouse is exposed to potential coronavirus (COVID-19) case, the judicial employee or judicial officer, and household members should self-isolate for ten (10) days, or until the person, the spouse was exposed to receive a negative coronavirus (COVID-19) test. The judicial employee or judicial officer and household members should take a coronavirus (COVID-19) test taken by an approved NMDOH testing site, using appropriate and approved NMDOH tests. However, if a judicial employee or judicial officer are two weeks past their second Moderna or Pfizer vaccination, or their first Johnson and Johnson vaccination, as confirmed and verified by human resources, they are exempted from the required self-isolation period and may return to the workplace.

3. If the household member works in the medical field with coronavirus (COVID-19) patients?

- A household member who works in the medical field with a coronavirus (COVID-19) positive patient is not considered a potential case for the purposes of a judicial employee or judicial officer's contact.
- Those who work in the medical field follow stringent protective personal equipment (PPE) requirements, and are not required to self-isolate.
- If the household member who works in the medical field displays coronavirus (COVID-19) symptoms the judicial employee or judicial officer must take a coronavirus (COVID-19) test taken by an approved NMDOH testing site, using appropriate and approved NMDOH tests, and begin the ten (10) day period of self-isolation.
- However, if the household member is confirmed positive with the coronavirus (COVID-19), the judicial employee or judicial officer must take a coronavirus (COVID-19) test taken by an approved NMDOH testing site, using appropriate and approved NMDOH tests, and begin the ten (10) day period of self-isolation.

4. What does “came in contact,” “close contact,” or “contact” with someone, mean?

- There is no distinction between close contact, came in contact, or contact.
- All are defined as being less than a minimum of six (6) feet from a potential or confirmed positive case of the coronavirus (COVID-19) for three (3) minutes or more.

Contact can occur while caring for, living with, visiting, traveling with, or sharing a healthcare waiting area or room with a coronavirus (COVID-19) case; or have been in contact with any secretion of a coronavirus (COVID-19) infected person (e.g., being coughed on).

- Contact for a fully vaccinated employee or judicial officer means being less than a minimum of six (6) feet from a member of the public, including a juror or witness, or judicial employee or judicial officer who is not fully vaccinated.

5. When does a negative coronavirus (*COVID-19) test replace the ten (10) day self-isolation period?

- If a judicial employee or judicial officer is symptomatic, experiencing coronavirus (COVID-19) related symptoms and is tested immediately upon becoming symptomatic and the test is negative, the judicial employee or judicial officer may return to the workplace after being symptom-free for 72-hours without the use of fever-reducing medicine and provided they are able to pass all daily screening questions. If a judicial employee or judicial officer does not get tested while symptomatic, or if they are tested after the symptoms are gone, then they will need to still get tested, and self-isolate for ten (10) days, and not return to the workplace until they have been symptom-free for 72-hours without the use of fever- reducing medicine, and are able to pass all daily screening questions.

- A judicial employee or judicial officer who is not exhibiting coronavirus (COVID-19) symptoms but has had exposure to a positive case MUST self-isolate for fourteen days, and a negative test is not a substitute for the self-isolation (because the judicial employee or judicial officer was tested while asymptomatic).
- The coronavirus (COVID-19 test) must be taken by an approved NMDOH testing site, using appropriate and approved NMDOH tests.

NMDOH Guidance on Masks

CDC Poster: Important Information about your mask

Effective August 23, 2021, all judicial officers and judicial employees, regardless of vaccination status shall wear an ERT approved mask or face covering while entering and exiting the building, or while in other physical spaces used, occupied, or operated by the New Mexico Judiciary.

Face masks worn by judicial officers and judicial employees must conform to the appropriate guidance for masks in effect at the time and regardless of vaccination status.

The Judiciary views the mask requirement as a serious matter of public safety. Therefore, any judicial employee, regardless of vaccination status not wearing a mask contrary to court protocols at the time will be subject to a minimum three (3) day unpaid suspension. If the judicial employee who violates the masking requirement is fully vaccinated, and this is their first offense, the chief judge or administrative authority in each judicial district has the discretion to choose a lesser action based upon the totality of the circumstances, and provided the chief judge or administrative authority counsels the violating judicial employee on the importance of masking.

The chief judge or administrative authority has the discretion to apply this rule retroactively. Any violation MUST be immediately reported to the AOC HR Director, and prior to a lesser action being taken. If the same fully vaccinated judicial employee violates the masking requirement a second time, they are subject to the minimum three (3) day unpaid suspension.

Jurors and the public will continue to be required to maintain a six (6) feet physical distance and wear masks according to existing protocols until further notice.

This means double protective masks or other masks authorized below for impaneled jurors and a single layer of a protective mask or face covering for all others (including witnesses, attorneys, voir dire jurors, and the general public). Judicial Districts may submit an exception to the physical distancing requirement by submitting a plan to the ERT explaining how the trial or jury selection can be safely carried out.

Masking in accordance with the Supreme Court protocols includes the following authorized masking requirements:

1. What guidance does the ERT have to judicial entities on the coronavirus (COVID-19) vaccination distribution?

- The following website allows judicial officers and employees to pre-register for the vaccination: <https://cvvaccine.nmhealth.org/>.
- Contractors who work inside a court or judicial facility may select “court personnel” when pre-registering for the vaccination.
- Chief judges, administrative authority or designee are encouraged to be in touch with local health officials responsible for vaccination distribution.
- However, please do not try to “jump the line” or get in front of those in other phases or groups eligible for vaccination, e.g., health care providers. When vaccinations are available for the court personnel category, the ERT recommends that judicial entities prioritize frontline court personnel.
- Judicial officers and employees who receive the vaccination or booster during working hours may use the COVID-Activities time reporting code in SHARE, up to a maximum of two (2) hours.

2. Are vaccinations mandatory for judicial officers or employees?

- Yes, for all judicial employees hired by the New Mexico Judiciary on or after August 16, 2021.
- There is currently no policy mandating vaccinations for those judicial employees hired before August 16, 2021; however, judicial officers and employees not vaccinated will be subject to weekly testing.

3. Are boosters mandatory for judicial officers or employees?

- Yes, booster vaccines are required for all judicial employees hired by the New Mexico Judiciary on or after January 1, 2022, or whose offer letter of employment is dated after December 10, 2021.

4. Do I need to report judicial officers and judicial employees who receive the vaccination, or the booster?

- Yes.
- Please report any judicial officers or employees who receive the vaccination to AOCHRD at aochrd-grp@nmcourts.gov. The ERT will be tracking and monitoring the judiciary’s vaccination progress.
- A judicial officer or judicial employee’s vaccination status, but not the actual proof of the COVID-19 vaccination, can be shared with the employee’s supervisor to determine compliance with the Supreme Court Orders, Protocol, and these FAQs. Management should treat a judicial officer or judicial employee's vaccination status as confidential, and on a need to know basis to ensure compliance.

5. What if a judicial officer or judicial employee gets the vaccination and then becomes symptomatic?

- Judicial officers and employees should continue to follow the Supreme Court Emergency Court Protocols and FAQs, and test and self-isolate if they experience the identified COVID-19 symptoms even if they have received the vaccination.

6. Does a judicial officer or judicial employee who was fully vaccinated but unable to get the booster vaccine due to testing positive have to begin testing weekly?

- No. A judicial officer or judicial employee, who is fully vaccinated, but unable to get the booster due to testing positive for the coronavirus (COVID-19), does not have to test weekly while they are ineligible for the booster. However, as soon as they become eligible for the booster (typically 90-days post positive test), and no later than seven (7) days following eligibility, they must get the booster to remain in a fully vaccinated status. Failure to do so will result in the weekly testing requirement for those who are not fully vaccinated.

7. Will I need the coronavirus (COVID-19) vaccination even if I'm not in a high-risk group?

- The NMDOH website states: Yes. While many people with the COVID-19 have only a mild illness, others may get a severe case. There is no way to know in advance how COVID-19 will affect you, even if you are not at an increased risk of severe complication. The COVID-19 vaccination helps protect you by creating an antibody response without having to experience sickness. The sooner most people are vaccinated and protected against COVID-19 disease, the sooner New Mexicans and all Americans can get back to normal life. [<https://cv.nmhealth.org/covid-vaccine/>]

8. When can I get a coronavirus (COVID-19) booster?

- At least two (2) months after the Johnson and Johnson vaccine, or at least six (6) months after the completion of the Pfizer or Moderna vaccine series.

9. Do I need to have a coronavirus (COVID-19) booster shot in order to be fully vaccinated?

- Yes. On January 1, 2022, the COVID-19 booster shot will be required for all judicial officers and judicial employees, who are eligible, in order for them to be considered fully vaccinated.

Questions on pre-registration or vaccinations or boosters may be directed to the NMDOH at 1-833-551-0518.

APPENDIX A

Definitions

Approved DOH COVID-19 Test:

DOH approved tests include home test kits mailed to a judicial officer or employee from an approved provider sponsored or in coordination with the DOH. Approved site locations in this context include the judicial officer or employee's residence. We have been told the home test kits have a shelf life of approximately 12-months.

Contact:

Contact is defined as an exposure of three minutes or longer within six (6) feet, with a mask. The NMJB does not distinguish between "contact" and "close contact".

- Contact for a fully vaccinated employee or judicial officer means being less than a minimum of six (6) feet from a member of the public, including a juror or witness, or judicial employee or judicial officer who are not fully vaccinated.

Contractor:

Someone who will enter the court or court building, or has in-person meetings with court staff at any point during their contract, and does not include contractors who work exclusively out of state.

Essential Medical Treatment:

Essential medical treatment includes:

- Routine medical services in response to a complaint or condition identified by the employee or their health care provider,
- Preventative care, including the coronavirus (COVID-19) vaccination, and screening services, and
- Does not include elective treatment or procedures.
- Non-essential health care services, procedures, and surgeries include those, which can be delayed for three months without undue risk to patient health.

Face Coverings:

Face Coverings include all masks that cover the nose and mouth. Plastic face shields are not a substitute for a mask but may be worn in addition to the face covering.

Fully Vaccinated:

- A judicial officer or judicial employee is considered fully vaccinated when they are two weeks beyond their second Moderna or Pfizer vaccination or have received their Johnson and Johnson vaccination, and if eligible, must have received their COVID-19 Booster, as confirmed by submission or presentation of the judicial officer's or employee's vaccination card to human resources.

- In order to maintain a status of being fully vaccinated, judicial officers and judicial employees must receive their booster shot no later than January 1, 2022.
- A judicial officer or judicial employee will no longer be considered fully vaccinated if they are eligible for the booster and do not receive it within seven (7) calendar days from the date of eligibility, and must begin the weekly testing required for employees who are not fully vaccinated.
- Eligibility for the booster is generally 60-days from the Johnson and Johnson vaccine, or 180-days from the completion of the Pfizer or Moderna vaccine series.
- Judicial officers and judicial employees should schedule their booster in advance so they can receive it as soon as they become eligible, and no later than seven (7) calendar days from the date they become eligible.
- A judicial officer or judicial employee who is fully vaccinated, but unable to get the booster due to testing positive for the coronavirus (COVID-19), does not have to test weekly while they are ineligible for the booster. However, as soon as they become eligible for the booster (typically 90-days post positive test), and no later than seven (7) days following eligibility, they must get the booster to remain in a fully vaccinated status. Failure to do so will result in the weekly testing requirement for those who are not fully vaccinated.
- Booster vaccines are required for all judicial employees hired by the New Mexico Judiciary on or after January 1, 2022, or whose offer letter of employment is dated after December 10, 2021.

Proof of COVID-19 Test:

An official dated result of a viral test (antigen or polymerase chain reaction (PCR)) for COVID-19 from Vault Health or an authorized COVID-19 testing site. (An antibody test does not meet this definition). An over-the-counter PCR test is not an approved test as it must be from an authorized COVID-19 testing site, approved by the DOH. A test taken in another state and approved by the New Mexico DOH is considered an authorized test.

Self-Isolation:

A person self-isolating may only leave a residence or place of lodging to receive medical care and should not allow others into the residence or place of lodging except for those providing medical care, emergency response, or other individuals designated by the NMDOH.
